Troax

Transforming a division into a stand-alone global force in metal panels

Troax makes mesh metal panels that are used to create sealed and protected indoor areas, as well as storage capacity in large modern warehouses. Today, the company has a presence in 26 countries around the globe, with six distribution hubs, enabling rapid delivery to its customers. Accent and company management acquired the company in 2010 from Gunnebo security group, which had owned Troax since 1994, and set about expanding to new markets and improving the group's product range. The company established bases in the important Chinese and American markets, which contributed to an increase in sales of more than 20% and a doubled EBITDA (earnings before interest, tax, depreciation and amortisation) during Accent's ownership. After outperforming its business plan, Accent sold Troax to FSN Capital in early 2013, securing the next stage of the company's expansion.
